Tom O' Brien Construction Ltd's continuing success and growth in today's competitive market is a direct result of its commitment to quality in all aspects of our operations. Our commitment to quality means that all contracts are continuously monitored and assessed to ensure they are on programme, on budget and that the contract is executed to the highest possible standards in accordance with the client's specification.

In the past year we have developed our Quality Management System in line with European Standard EN ISO 9001:2000 Quality Management System Requirements with a view to accreditation at a future date.

The programme we are putting in place has the full backing of our directors and we have our own quality assurance manager Mr Dan Casey, who has the organisational freedom to establish, develop and implement the Tom O'Brien Construction Ltd. quality programme. All personnel are fully conversant with our objectives through ongoing training at all levels within the company, relating to quality and this is mandatory on all staff.

It will be the quality assurance manager's responsibility to ensure that all sections of our Quality Assurance Manual are fully complied with at all times. If for any reason problems arise which cannot be resolved by the quality assurance manager they shall immediately be brought to the attention of the directors for resolution. In the event of a site specific quality assurance plan being adopted for a project this will be planned and executed in conjunction with our own to ensure that it is equal to or exceeds the requirements of our quality procedures. Where quality assurance programmes are to be implemented by other organisations, we will be happy to interface and develop such programmes, providing they are equal to our own.
